North Huntingdon Township Launches a Modern and Technologically Integrated Website

North Huntingdon, Pennsylvania— (12/15/17) North Huntingdon Township has been working with CivicPlus to design and launch a new, modern, and easier to use website that can interconnect the North Huntingdon community. The new website is a part of the Township's effort to become a more technologically developed municipality. While the new website includes most of the content from the previous site, the navigation was updated to make information more readily accessible to residents and businesses. Additionally, a number of new content and feature options are available that make the website more convenient and interactive.

The Township is currently developing and integrating a number of these options, including the ability to make online pavilion reservations as well as a new "Township Marketplace" that will provide a directory of major businesses in the North Huntingdon area.

Mike Turley, Assistant Manager for North Huntingdon Township, commented, "We believe the new website will be easier to navigate and be more interactive for the Township and residents to communicate."

Notify Me is also a new and important feature. It is a notification module that will be replacing the current Nixle alerts. Residents will need to sign-up to receive future notifications through email and/or text message notifications. Signing up can easily be done from the homepage at <http://www.township.north-huntingdon.pa.us>. Detailed instructions can also be found on the homepage.
